The display board is divided into two main horizontal sections: a green upper section and a yellow lower section. Each section contains multiple columns of small white cards. Each card has a header with a student's name and a set of three colored dots (green, yellow, red) indicating performance levels. The cards are arranged in a grid-like fashion, with some cards placed on the green background and others on the yellow background. The overall layout is organized and visually appealing, providing a clear overview of student performance across the class.
